He knocks to best the band. When people come a looking To make homes within our valley; This knocker sure will find them

And tell, the crops they will not rally And frosts, come so late in the spring It catches the fruit and everything: The grain you surely cannot raise

And the land alone is fit to graze If business in our town he'd take, He gives this advice; you'll surely break; For every line is over done Fold up your blankets and begone

In every place this gay old knocker, Knocks at progression with many socker:

When people come to view our valley A crop of knockers are sure to rally.

There's way to knock that's good and It's knocking this knocker as be would

We need not knock in his way or manner But we'll bang his head with an effective hammer.

When he says the frosts will kill; by huck! We'll exhibitour fruit and garden truck

When he says too dry; we need more Out comes our fine grasses and golden grain. The business in town where he'd have Just note the fine stores, and see the To whatever sine he'd call the attention,

Just show what we've got; no word we need mention Our boys, and our girls, are surely sublime, There's only one reason; it must be the clime;

Long lives have our men, our womer live on. So Scat! Mr. Knocker, you'd better be I'll tell you what to do with this rooster. Give him a hunch, to become a good booster: If its impossible for us to accomplish this thing, Let's have a good funeral before early spring. There's no room for a knocker; he's in the wrong alley: But boosters are needed to tell of our valley.

Just truth we need tell, of the billside and plain;

It'll bring in investors that'll come back
